A Message from the President

Thank you for renewing your commitment to the vending industry within the state of Indiana. For those companies that have joined the IVC for their inaugural year, we welcome you. Your support of the Indiana Vending Council recognizes you as a Distributor, Operator, and/or Supplier that understands the importance of Business Associations.

Surviving the economics of the past several years has provided major challenges for many businesses. Surviving the potential economics that the near future appears to have in store, will require all of the expertise of business owners’/managers’ past knowledge resources, but also the knowledge resources of other owner/managers that are only obtainable through networking opportunities. Memberships in all professional associations provide the network and knowledge resources that may be the deciding factor in whether a business survives or not.

The IVC Board of governors has worked diligently to ensure as many opportunities as reasonable to deliver networking opportunities, educational functions, and legislative watch dogging to its membership. However, the one function that they cannot force is your involvement. The decision to take advantage of the educational, social, and networking functions available is left entirely to each member. During this next year the IVC Governors have committed additional time away from their own business, to bring the IVC even closer to you. Members of the board shall be traveling to the many different regions of the state to bring our message even closer to you. Please take the time and make sure you are able to attend when the mobile meeting arrives in your area. There is critical information that we promise can be gained by your attendance.

Thank you again for your commitment to the Indiana Vending Industry.

Sincerely,

Jeff Snyder – President
